January 2022

This report is to inform the reader of the Transparency/Governance obligations of the Office of the Police and Crime Commissioner (OPCC). The OPCC will publish this information on a quarterly basis, to ensure that the public can review the functions of the OPCC. The areas of focus for this report are:

- PSD Dip Sampling
- CRT/Lower Dissatisfaction
- Chief Constable complaints
- Reviews
- ICVS
- Legally Qualified Chairs
- Freedom of Information / Subject Access Requests
- Trends/Patterns received by the OPCC

Dip Sampling – Schedule 3 complaints – Professional Standards Department

The purpose of the OPCC Dip Sampling Schedule 3 complaints is that it is a critical function to the reputation of Bedfordshire Police that the public has confidence in the complaints system. To this end, both the Chief Constable and the Police and Crime Commissioner have arranged for ‘dip sampling’ to be undertaken of complaints. On a monthly basis, the OPCC will request categories of complaints from the Professional Standards Department and when the files have been received will review them in full.

The categories of complaint are:

The OPCC will consider such aspects when completing the Dip Sampling:

- Timescales for completion of investigations
- Learning Identified
- Were all allegations covered fully and appropriately
- Satisfaction
- Was BWV used and was it useful to the complaint
- Other aspects are considered throughout the process

The process relates only to the dip sampling of closed complaints cases and does not cover either the duty to oversee ongoing complaints or the new wider power of direction of the handling of complaints against the police.

The purpose of Dip Sampling is not to interfere with the review process and decisions made by the Relevant Review Body can only be overturned by the courts through the Judicial Review Process.

Q3 – PSD Dip Sample

Bedfordshire OPCC dip sampled 13 complaints in November 2021. Within the 13 complaints, 35 allegations were covered.

Bedfordshire OPCC dip sampled 11 complaints in December 2021. Within the 11 complaints, 25 allegations were covered.

Bedfordshire OPCC dip sampled 16 complaints in January 2022. Within the 16 complaints, 54 allegations were covered.

Allegations - November 2021 - January 2022

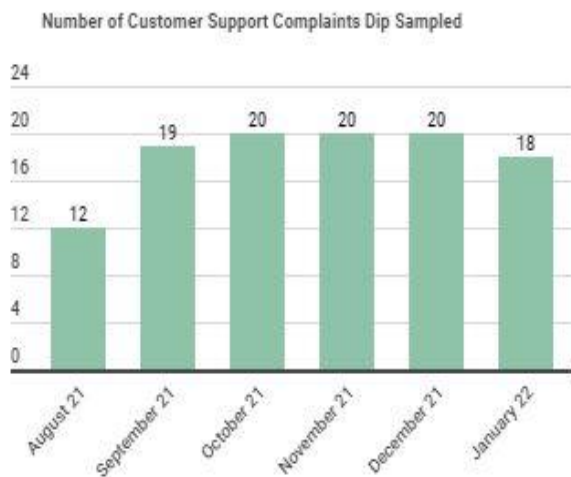

Bedfordshire OPCC believe that all complaints dip sampled have been dealt with in a reasonable and proportionate manner – none of the complaints were subject to a review by the OPCC and the OPCC agree with any learning identified within the complaint reports.

CRT/Lower Dissatisfaction – Dip Sample

The Transparency Team are currently finalising all aspects in regards to the new function and are working with the Customer Services Management Team to ensure feedback is given and fed into future learning. CRT/Dissatisfaction Dip Sampling commenced in August 2021.

Chief Constable Complaints

No Chief Constable complaints have been recorded within the third Quarter – November 2021 to January 2022. Six complaints were received throughout the third Quarter; however, these were not recorded as they were deemed to not be about the conduct of the Chief Constable. These have been forwarded to the Customer Services Team within the Force.

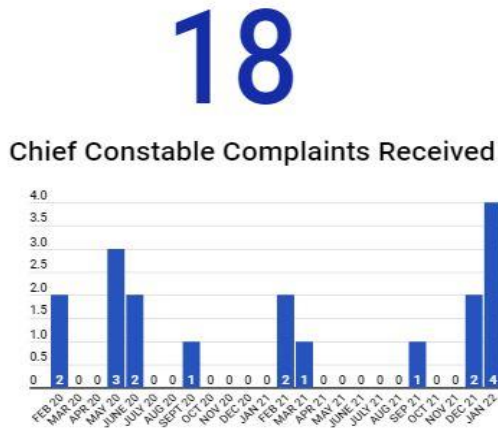

Complainants have contacted the OPCC in regards to matters which they deemed to be a complaint against the Chief Constable, however if the complaint is not about the Chief Constables conduct directly, it is not a complaint against the Chief Constable. Complainants believe as the Chief Constable has overall responsibility for the Force, they believe he is accountable and complaints can be made against him. However if the OPCC reviews the allegations made against the Chief Constable Garry Forsyth, and on immediate review of your complaint, the complaint is not regarding the conduct of the Chief Constable and that the Chief Constable has not had any personal involvement into the case and delegates such responsibilities to others within the organisation, a complaint will not be recorded.

The IOPC statutory guidance states ‘A.7 There will be times where a complaint names the chief officer or acting chief officer, but the complaint is actually about something where authority has been delegated to another officer or staff member within the force. Where the local policing body receives a complaint for which is it is not the appropriate authority, they must forward the complaint to the appropriate authority. Therefore, where it is immediately clear that the chief officer or acting chief officer has had no involvement, the local policing body must take the steps outlined in paragraphs 6.5 – 6.7. They should explain the reasons for this to the complainant.'

So, all complaints of this nature are forwarded to the Customer Services team of Bedfordshire Police to review and allocate to individuals within the Force.

February 2020 - January 2022

Please note that 3 of the CC complaints received were from the same complainant.

Chief Constable Complaint Outcomes

Reviews

From the 1st February 2020 the Office of the Police and Crime Commissioner (OPCC) will be the relevant review body in most cases apart from those complaints or conduct matters listed below which the IOPC are responsible for reviewing where they relate to:

- Any incident or circumstance in or in consequence of which a person has died or suffered serious injury.
- A serious sexual assault or offence
- Serious corruption
- Criminal offence or behaviour which is liable to lead to disciplinary proceedings

If a request to review is submitted to either the IOPC or the OPCC and they are not the correct review body, then they will forward it to the correct review body and notify the complainant that this has happened.

What a review means

A review offers the opportunity to consider whether the complaint outcome is reasonable and proportionate but not the handling of the incident leading to the complaint. Each review will be considered on a case-by-case basis. If the reviewer concludes that the outcome was not reasonable and proportionate, the review should be upheld i.e the service provided by the police was not acceptable the OPCC will, where appropriate, make recommendation to the Chief Constable of Bedfordshire Police.

Requesting a complaint review

Complainants will have been advised by PSD in their complaint outcome letter if they have the right of review and who is the appropriate review body (either the OPCC or IOPC). The review can only be against the outcome of a formal complaint, i.e a complaint that has been recorded under the legislation. The right of review does not apply to an informal complaint i.e one that has not been recorded.

The timeframe for requesting a review is 28 days from the date of the letter concluding the complaint.

Before a complaint can be reviewed by the OPCC it has to be formally recorded by Bedfordshire Police's Professional Standards Department (PSD) under Schedule 3 of the Police Reform Act 2002.

This is different to having an expression of dissatisfaction dealt with/logged by the Force through their Customer Support team and which has not been recorded under Schedule 3.

Complaints recorded under Schedule 3 will be handled and investigated by the Force or the IOPC (depending on the severity of the allegation).

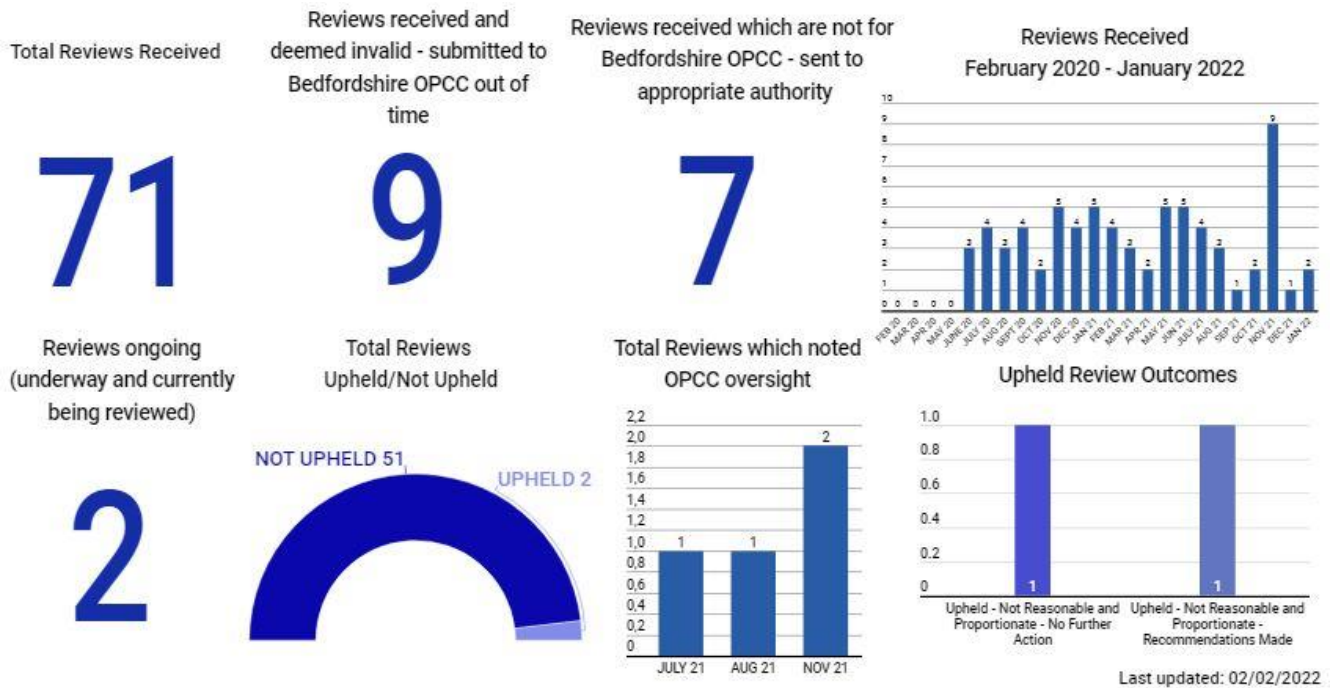

The Police and Crime Commissioner nor the OPCC can get involved at this stage or investigate the original incident leading to the complaint being made as this could potentially compromise any future request by the complainant to review.

Bedfordshire Police having concluded their investigation of the complaint, will inform the complainant of the outcome, including information about the right to apply for a review, who is the appropriate review body (either the OPCC or IOPC).

Should the complainant wish to request a review, then an application for a review must be in writing and state the following:

- the details of the complaint;
- the date on which the complaint was made;
- the name of the force or local policing body whose decision is the subject of the application;
- the date on which the complainant was provided with the details about their right of review at the conclusion of the investigation or other handling of their complaint.
- the complaint reference number on the outcome letter from PSD.

Due to the changes in the Specified information Order – the OPCC needs to ensure that Review information is readily available.

OPCC Oversight that has been passed to the Force:

- Feedback to be given to the Case handler that additional information should be added to the final report (Who, what, when, why, how) to stop any room for questions by the complainant or the OPCC.
- Feedback given that an increased level of intrusive supervision takes place when student officers or new in-service officers are dealing with investigations such as the one in question.
- The internal process for any disclosure of information is for it to be reported to the Information Security Team for them to review and make the determination if any additional actions or reporting needs to be completed. I recommend the case handler to report this to the Information Management Unit for their information and review. They may determine that it is not a breach, however I believe best practice would be to report this.

Independent Custody Visitors

Under the Police Reform Act 2002, as amended by the Police Reform & Social Responsibility Act 2011, the Local Policing Body has a statutory duty to establish and maintain an Independent Custody Visiting Scheme, which involves volunteer members of the public visiting police stations to check and report on the treatment of detainees, the conditions in which they are held and that their rights and entitlements are being observed. The scheme offers protection and confidentiality to detainees, the police and provides reassurance to the wider community.

The purpose of Independent Custody Visiting is to provide assurance that detainees in Bedfordshire Police Custody are:

1. Treated fairly and in accordance with the Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984 (PACE) and associated codes of practice

2. That the conditions detainees are kept in are clean and safe and any matters of concern are recorded and dealt with effectively;
3. That the rights and entitlements of detainees in Bedfordshire Police Custody are observed and adhered to.

Independent Custody Visitors are members of the local community who, working in pairs, call at Police Stations unannounced at any time. With agreement, the visitors can speak to detainees about their treatment or conditions, and take up any issues of concern with custody staff. A short report of their findings is made prior to leaving the station. Their work provides the PCC (and in turn the local community) with assurance that anyone arrested by the police and held in custody is treated fairly and has access to appropriate facilities.

Bedfordshire ICV Scheme has 23 ICVs. The ICV Scheme has recruited 11 new ICVs and we are awaiting vetting clearance before initial training can be carried out.

Physical visiting to Police Custody in Bedfordshire ceased in March 2020 due to the spread of the COVID-19 Pandemic. Oversight of custody was initially maintained via virtual meetings held between the Bedfordshire ICV Scheme Manager and the Chief Inspector of Custody on a weekly basis. Virtual ICV visiting commenced towards the end of August 2020 whereby two virtual visits are held each week, one to the Kempston suite and one to the Luton suite. Weekly Custody meetings have continued throughout this timeframe where any issues and concerns are addressed directly with the custody Chief Inspector and Inspectors.

The national roadmap to cautiously ease the country out of lockdown has provided confidence to consider a return to physical visiting. This policy highlights the revised procedure for visiting custody from 19th July 2021 mitigating the risks of contracting or spreading the virus.

Due to Covid-19 the ICV scheme has been completing virtual visits via Microsoft Teams, to speak with detainees and ensure that they are treated fairly, the conditions are appropriate and to ensure they have had their rights and entitlements explained, however we did return to Physical Visiting on the 19th July 2021.

ICV Visits

Within the ICV Visits the OPCC have noted that a high percentage of detainees held in custody have stated that they have been treated fairly and have been looked after.

Points to note that have been raised during the visits:

- Staffing levels are low within Custody, this has been discussed with Chief Inspector and Force Exec Team are aware of issues.
- There has been a national shortage of ready meals in Custody – the OPCC have been informed that this is not a cause for concern and there is enough stock at present.
- Ready meals and sandwiches best before end and use by dates not always being regularly reviewed by Custody staff – ICV’s have found out of date ready meals and sandwiches on a couple of occasions.
- New and updated report form paperwork hasn’t been readily available for ICV’s on several occasions, this has been discussed with CI and she has informed OPCC this should not be an issue as she has informed staff to bulk print. The CI has sent communications to all Custody Staff to ensure that the new updated forms are being used.
- On one visit a new member of staff assisted the ICVs with their visit but didn’t allow the ICVs to speak to the detainees with the door open, only via the hatch. This was raised to the CI and an email has been sent to all Custody Staff reminding them of the process.

Good practice:

- ICV’s have noted on several occasions how helpful staff are, especially when Custody is busy.
- “Extremely helpful DO, nothing was too much trouble” – ICV
- On several occasions it was reported that both custody suites were very clean.

On the 15th of December 2021 the ICV Panel meeting took place virtually via Teams. The ICVs had a presentation from the Force and OPCC on all things custody. The Police and Crime Commissioner also joined and welcomed the ICVs. The ICVs were very grateful to meet and speak to the Commissioner. The OPCC hope to return to face to face meeting in March 2022.

Legally Qualified Chairs

Following a public consultation led by the Home Secretary in the autumn of 2014, changes were made to the police disciplinary system for the purposes of more transparency, independence and justice. These included holding police misconduct hearings in public (from May 2015) and replacing Chief Police Officers who currently chair hearings with Legally Qualified Chairs (LQC) from January 2016. The role and responsibilities of the LQC have been subsequently strengthened in the 2020 regulations.

The Police Misconduct Hearing Panel includes a chair selected from a list of persons appointed by Police & Crime Commissioners (PCCs) to conduct misconduct hearings for special constables and police officers other than senior police officers and is governed by the current and earlier Police Conduct Regulations.

The Police Misconduct Hearing Panel is likely to be convened to hear allegations of serious cases of misconduct by police officers. The maximum outcome at this hearing would be dismissal from the police service without notice. Cases would include for example, allegations of criminal acts, serious road traffic matters such as drink/driving and other serious breaches of the standards of professional behaviour expected of police officers such as neglect of duty.

Misconduct Hearings could also be convened to consider the final stages of action under performance regulations, where police officers can be dismissed for unsatisfactory performance or attendance.

The Misconduct Hearing Panels will hear cases governed by the Police (Conduct) Regulations 2020. For the purposes of this Handbook, all references will be to the 2020 regulations. (It should be noted that cases where investigations commenced prior to 1st February 2020 will be heard under the Police (Conduct) Regulations 2012 (amended by Police (Conduct) (Amendment) Regulations 2014 and 2015). Should this be the case an LQC will be advised of the relevant regulations to be applied.)

The Hearing Panels consist of three persons: The Legally Qualified Chair (LQC), a police officer of the rank of superintendent or above, and an independent member (IM).

The OPCC is the authority to appoint LQCs and IMs and in line with the transparency pledge made by the PCC the OPCC will be releasing the figures of the numbers that have been appointed.

The OPCC is currently going through the Police Appeals Tribunal (PAT) process.

The Policing and Crime Act 2017: changes to the police complaints system

Legislation changed in February 2020 to ensure that matters can be dealt with at the most appropriate level, supporting both the efficiency and fairness of the complaints system. There is still provision for the most serious matters to be investigated independently. Below that level there are a wide range of complaints that are most appropriately dealt with by the police themselves. The changes allow for certain types of complaints to be resolved outside the requirements of Schedule 3 to the Police Reform Act 2002, while those that have been recorded may be handled reasonably and proportionately otherwise than by investigation, by investigation, or, in some circumstances, no further action may be taken. This allows for the police to quickly learn from, and make improvements based on, the complaints they handle.

All local policing bodies have certain duties in relation to the handling of complaints. They can also choose to take on responsibility for certain additional functions that would otherwise sit with the chief officer:

- Model 1 (mandatory): all local policing bodies have responsibility for carrying out reviews where they are the relevant review body.
- Model 2 (optional): in addition to the responsibilities under model 1, a local policing body can choose to assume responsibility for making initial contact with complainants, handling complaints outside of Schedule 3 to the Police Reform Act 2002, and recording complaints.
- Model 3 (optional): a local policing body that has adopted model 2 can additionally choose to assume responsibility for keeping complainants and interested persons properly informed of the progress of the handling and outcome of their complaint.

Local policing bodies do not become the appropriate authority for the complaint under any of the above models. Rather, in the case of models 2 and 3, they perform some of the functions that the chief officer would otherwise carry out as the appropriate authority.

Bedfordshire's OPCC has adopted Model 1, which is the mandatory level.

All complaints functions will remain within the Police Force (except for complaints made against the Chief Constable which are reviewed by the OPCC). The Force has set up a Customer Support Team (CST) which is looking after the initial complaints function. No complaints will now be received directly to the Professional Standards Department (PSD), they will be triaged by the CST on the severity of the complaint.

If complaints meet the threshold for severity they will be passed on to the PSD for investigation. However if they are lower level complaints which can be dealt with outside of the schedule 3 complaints legislation, the CST will deal with and log on to the CRT Database for complaints.

The Office of the Police and Crime Commissioner (OPCC) is unable to investigate complaints against Bedfordshire Police or individual members of staff. This falls to the operational management of Bedfordshire Police. Individual complaints should, therefore, be directed in the first instance to Bedfordshire Police.

Bedfordshire Police deal with all complaints against police officers below the rank of Chief Constable, all police staff and the Special Constabulary. For minor matters that can be resolved quickly and simply, a supervisor can usually deal with your complaint. More serious matters, however, are referred to the Professional Standards Department, who will oversee the process. Some matters, due to their nature or seriousness, are referred to the Independent Office of Police Conduct (IOPC).

There is a reduction of correspondence being received from last year, however the OPCC believe this is due to the OPCC message being received that we are unable to influence operational policing decisions or investigate any complaints, with the exception of the Chief Constable.
