of women in the UK reported experiencing harassment in public spaces

84%
of rape and serious sexual offences victims are female

“ As Bedfordshire's Police and Crime Commissioner, I know that tackling Violence Against Women and Girls (VAWG) is everybody's business.

I also know we have dedicated officers and staff in Bedfordshire Police who use every resource available to pursue perpetrators and those who would cause harm to women in our county.

Preventing crime from happening must also be a priority, which is why I want us to tackle the root causes of these societal problems by sending out a strong message on this disturbing trend, providing clearer signposting to victims.

The government funded Safer Streets Violence Against Women and Girls project is doing a huge amount of education, prevention, and awareness-raising to shift attitudes among potential perpetrators and ensure everyone, male or female, walking the streets of Bedfordshire can feel much safer.

We will continue to raise awareness about sexual abuse and sexual violence, while encouraging victims to report incidents to Bedfordshire Police. Ultimately, my current focus is making sure perpetrators know that 'No Means No!'. ”

Festus Akinbusoye
Bedfordshire Police and Crime Commissioner

WHY

VAWG?

Violence Against Women and Girls (VAWG) is defined by the Home Office as acts of violence or abuse that we know disproportionately affect women and girls. This includes rape and sexual offences, stalking and domestic abuse.

But we know there are other behaviours which affect women and girls - catcalling, inappropriate contact, misogyny, explicit messaging and groping, to name a few.

These behaviours may not all meet a criminal threshold, but they could be precursors for further offending. Either way, they make women and girls in Bedfordshire feel unsafe.

While initiatives in the programme are committed to ensuring that any victim will receive a sensitive and appropriate response according to their needs, gender based violence is predominately a pattern of behaviour carried out by men against women.

This does not mean that men are never victims of violence, or that women are not sometimes perpetrators. However, local and national data reveals a clear disproportionality along gender lines.

PUBLIC SAFETY SURVEY COMMENTS

“Men have no idea of all the adjustments women make to try and keep safe on a daily basis. I wear shoes I can run in when returning home late, I prefer to drive or get a cab.”

“I get approached by men who don't leave when asked to please leave me alone.”

“Men need to step up and realise how women feel. Men need to see women as equal and respect them.”

WHAT IS

The Home Office unveiled Safer Streets in January 2020. The project aims to help Police and Crime Commissioners, local authorities, and their partners to secure extra funding to support initiatives to make the streets of England and Wales safer.

Last year it was announced that the Bedfordshire Office of the Police and Crime Commissioner (OPCC) had been successful in a bid to secure just over £700,000 to target Violence Against Women and Girls (VAWG) in public places across the county. It was expected that this would also have an indirect impact on other areas such as anti-social behaviour, serious violence, robbery, gangs and criminal exploitation.

The Safer Streets project has funded specialist youth workers to tackle Violence Against Women and Girls and the attitudes that underpin it, as well as an educational programme across schools and colleges in the county.

The April 2022 Bedfordshire Women and Girls Safety survey suggested that many women felt that education was the only long-term solution to addressing Violence Against Women and Girls, with one respondent wanting us to “listen to women's safety concerns. Take misogyny seriously as it's a first step to more abusive behaviour.”

Collectively the Safer Streets initiatives aim to reach and support the largest number of victims, perpetrators and communities across the county, with the aim of educating, raising awareness, improving the feeling of safety in public spaces, and increasing reporting of Violence Against Women and Girls.

Staying Safe

Walk confidently when you are on your own and avoid being distracted by things like your phone or listening to music

Don't be afraid to say no to strangers

Your safety is more important than your belongings

Try and remain calm. Fear can cloud your judgement

Call for help if it is safe to do so and if you have a personal safety alarm, use it

SPIKING ADVICE

- Difficulties communicating
- Memory loss or confusion
- Breathing issues
- Vomiting
- Loss of feeling across your senses
- Loss of inhibition
- Feeling nauseous or more drunk than usual

- Avoid leaving your drink unattended
- Use anti-spiking drink covers where possible
- If you do accept a drink from a stranger, accompany them to the bar and take it from the bartender yourself

THINK YOU'VE BEEN SPIKED?

- Alert someone you trust - a friend, member of staff or host
- Do not leave where you are by yourself, go to a safe place with someone
- If the symptoms get worse, call an ambulance immediately
- Alert the police after any suspected incident of drink spiking
- In an emergency, always call 999

LOOK OUT FOR YOUR FRIENDS
REMEMBER, YOU WILL NEVER BE JUDGED,
SO IF YOU ARE IN NEED, ALWAYS REPORT IT.

HOW TO BECOME AN ACTIVE BYSTANDER

Being an active bystander means being aware of when someone's behaviour is inappropriate or threatening and choosing to challenge it.

This might be things like comments made by a friend that you feel are inappropriate, or where you spot someone being harassed at a party or club.

Here are some top tips to be an active bystander and help improve public safety in Bedfordshire.

STRENGTH IN NUMBERS

It is safer to call out behaviour or intervene in a group. If this is not an option, report it to others who can act.

CARE FOR THE VICTIM

If it is safe to do so, talk to the person who you think may need help and ask them if they are OK.

REMEMBER THE FOUR D'S:

DIRECT ACTION

Call out behaviour in a calm and polite way - don't aggravate the situation.

DISTRACT

Interrupt, start a conversation or come up with an excuse to get the victim out of the situation.

DELEGATE

If you don't feel comfortable doing it, get someone else to step in such as venue staff or security.

DELAY

If the situation is too dangerous - such as if you are outnumbered or there is the threat of violence - you don't need to intervene straight away. Hanging around, reporting it and checking the victim is ok are all brave and positive interventions.

IN AN EMERGENCY, CALL THE POLICE ON 999. AND REMEMBER, NEVER PUT YOURSELF IN DANGER. ONLY INTERVENE IF SAFE TO DO SO.

The Suzy Lamplugh Trust offers free bystander training to help you stand up against street harassment.

WORKING TOGETHER

The Bedfordshire Violence and Exploitation Reduction Unit (VERU) is a network of different agencies and groups aiming to tackle the root causes of things like gang membership and prevent young people becoming involved in all aspects of child criminal exploitation.

As part of the Safer Streets project YouTurn (Direction+) is working with people who have been violent towards women to change their behaviour and reduce reoffending.

Bedfordshire Police and their partners are working together to tackle perpetrators of violence or abuse against women and girls and have a number of initiatives to tackle this.

“ Rape and serious sexual offending are among the most serious and high impact crimes. There is a clear drive within our force to ensure that we pursue the most serious offenders whilst ensuring that we provide robust support for victims, ensuring their voice is heard throughout. ”

Detective Chief Superintendent Zara Brown
Head of Crime and the Public Protection Unit

Project Firefly's night time economy initiative aims to improve the safety and confidence of women and girls, while relentlessly pursuing those who commit the most serious crimes. Police will patrol our communities and deter those whose behaviour falls short of what is respectful and acceptable.

We are working with community groups to raise awareness of Violence Against Women and Girls among diverse communities and break down barriers to reporting.

Police are working with charities and other agencies to support rather than criminalise vulnerable women and girls who come into police custody.

Bedfordshire Police is giving survivors of rape and domestic abuse a platform to speak out and have their voices heard, in a bid to raise awareness and encourage others to come forward.

GETTING INVOLVED TO HELP YOUR COMMUNITY

THERE ARE LOTS OF DIFFERENT WAYS YOU CAN VOLUNTEER YOUR TIME AND EXPERTISE TO HELP MAKE YOUR COMMUNITY SAFER. SCAN THE QR CODE FOR MORE INFORMATION AND TO GET INVOLVED

WATCH SCHEMES

Join one of the following watch schemes and help make a difference in your local community. Speed, Dog, Horse, Street and Neighbourhood watch schemes operate across the county.

Join one of our volunteer community panels and help provide independent scrutiny of how stop and search and use of force powers are applied across Bedfordshire.

SCRUTINY PANELS

INDEPENDENT CUSTODY VISITORS

Independent custody visiting is a well-established system whereby volunteers attend police custody suites to check on the treatment of detainees, the conditions in which they are held and that their rights and entitlements are being observed.

Special constables are volunteer police officers, sometimes known as specials. They take part in frontline police work and have the same powers as regular officers whilst contributing to their local communities.

BECOME A SPECIAL CONSTABLE

SCHOOL VOLUNTEERS

You can support the force's Education and Diversion team's engagement with primary schools to raise awareness of police priorities and help keep children in Bedfordshire safe. For further information please email volunteering@beds.police.uk

Age 13-18? Become a Police Cadet and support local policing through volunteering and assisting in community and crime prevention events. You can also follow Beds Youth Council on Instagram and help shape Bedfordshire Police's policies involving young people.

COMMUNITY SAFETY PARTNERSHIPS IN BEDFORDSHIRE

Bedfordshire is made up of three local authorities.

Bedford Borough Council Central Bedfordshire Council Luton Council

Each area has a community safety partnership (CSP) which brings together different agencies to tackle crime and anti-social behaviour in their local area.

Over the last three years each of the Bedfordshire CSPs have worked with the Office of the Police and Crime Commissioner to deliver Safer Streets initiatives, working with local communities to improve safety and promote support services.

Community engagement forms an important part of the partnerships' work to identify local priorities and understand our communities' perception of safety.

Each of the three community safety teams across the county have been delivering Safer Streets pop up events.

BEDFORDSHIRE DOMESTIC ABUSE PARTNERSHIP (BDAP)

Domestic abuse can take many forms - it's not just physical violence. It can also include emotional, sexual and financial abuse, stalking and harassment, coercive and controlling behaviour, forced marriage, 'honour' based abuse, and female genital mutilation and other harmful practices.

The Bedfordshire Domestic Abuse Partnership (BDAP) is made up of key agencies in Bedfordshire - including all three local authorities and Bedfordshire Police - who work to raise awareness about domestic abuse and deliver services to support those affected.

Everyone has the right to live free from violence and fear. On the BDAP website you will be able to find out about different types of domestic abuse, as well as contact details for a variety of support services for anyone experiencing domestic abuse.

DOMESTIC ABUSE SUPPORT HUBS

ANYONE, REGARDLESS OF AGE, GENDER, ETHNICITY, ABILITY, SEXUAL ORIENTATION, CIRCUMSTANCES, BACKGROUND OR CULTURE, CAN BE A VICTIM OF DOMESTIC ABUSE.

But not everyone has a safe space to go to when they need to get away from abuse and access support. That's why we have a network of Support Hubs across Bedfordshire.

Our Support Hubs are designated spaces within a building that display information about local and national domestic abuse support services. Anyone experiencing domestic abuse can use this area and be safe to make a confidential call or use the internet to get help. Numerous organisations and businesses have signed up to be Support Hubs, including:

LIBRARIES, PHARMACIES AND CHEMISTS, PUBS AND RESTAURANTS, SCHOOLS AND COMMUNITY ORGANISATIONS.

The BDAP website has a directory of businesses who offer Support Hub spaces, so anyone experiencing domestic abuse can find somewhere to go for support.
